

4 Jun 2021

It's good to feel I'm not suffering. But what if that's all I can feel? Is feeling nothing better than feeling anything?

I don't feel so.

At least, suffering gives you hope that things might get better, but feeling nothing won't give you anything. It's just empty.

I think it strip me off from my body. If I used to feel my body is a cage, I'm now putted in another unfamiliar cage that cuts me from feeling the outside. Everything is fake to me. If there was a hope to set me free from the cage, there is nothingness now. I can't feel anything now. I don't think who I'm now can give birth to anything can motivate me now. All I feel now is nothing but nothing. I already lost the willing to try to hope sth can change the situation. Because I can't feel anything. That's all the same to me even if that happens.

Comments on me:

I don't blame anyone. I would be really grateful to each of you that makes me me/myself. But if I live again I would definitely not choose to live like this again. I hate all that occurs to me. But I know none of anyone I knew should take response to this. It's what I deserve in this life. But I pledge and I can tell that I hate this and I don't want to live like this. All I'm doing is to make others feeling better. I wish one day they would let me go. I wish I can sustain till the day they feel senseless.